Petrol and Diesel are sold through two channels, i.e., through retail outlets and direct sales by companies to bulk consumers. No records are kept sector-wise for sales made through the large number of retails outlets. Hence, exact quantum of sales to various sectors is not available. However, in order to assess sector-wise consumption of sales made through retails outlets of Diesel an All India, a study was carried out through the market research agency, Indian Market Research Bureau (IMRB), in 1998. As per this study and on PSU data on direct sales available for end use-wise consumption for 2004-05, estimated consumption by transport sector is 59.1% for Diesel. Petrol is mainly consumed in passenger transport and there is no other known major use of the same.

Petroleum Conservation and Research Association (PCRA), a body under this Ministry is engaged in spreading conservation and efficient use of petroleum products including Petrol and Diesel. It carries out regular compaigns in this regard.
